

University of London International Programmes Examinations

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Who are eligible to enroll for the examinations?

Only registered students of University of London International Programmes are eligible to enroll for the examinations. Information on how to become a registered student is available at the University's website (www.londoninternational.ac.uk).

2. When will the examination be held?

Examinations are mainly held in May/June every year for most degree programmes and September/October/ November for certain postgraduate programmes.

* Candidates should check their respective "Programme Specification and Regulations" for the availability of examinations.

3. When will the examinations registration take place?

Registration for May/June examinations will be accepted from late December in the year preceding the examinations to late January in the year of the examinations.

Registration for September/October/November examination will be accepted from early July to late July.

4. How to obtain the registration documents?

During registration period, the registration documents (except the University's examination entry form which can be downloaded from the student portal of the University's website) can be obtained from the HKEAA San Po Kong office.

The Notes for Persons Entering for the Examination and the HKEAA Examination Application Form may be downloaded from the HKEAA's website.

Candidates may send a stamped (HK$2.0) and self-addressed envelope (please mark "UOL" Entry Form) to the HKEAA Registration Office for collection of the registration documents, including the Demand Note.

5. How much does it cost?

Candidates are required to pay two examination fees – the Local Examination Fee and the University Examination Entry Fees, if applicable.

Local Examination Fees (in HK$)	Examination fees payable to the HKEAA. Details are available on the Notes for Persons Entering for the Examination.
University Examination Entry Fees (in GBP)	Examination entry fees payable to the University of London, if applicable. Candidates may refer the fees at the University’s website (http://www.londoninternational.ac.uk/applications-admissions/costs).

6. How many papers should I take in an examination?

Candidates should check the “Programme Specification and Regulations” of the programme they are studying before making the examination registration. Paper(s) must be entered according to the programme regulations set by the University. The HKEAA cannot be held responsible if a candidate is later found unqualified for the examination or the entry is rejected by the University. Local Examination Fee and supplementary fee will NOT be refunded or transferred from one examination to another/a later examination or for other purposes.

7. When will the result release?

The examination results release dates are different for different programmes. On the date of the release of results, the University will send an email giving the link to the results page to the concerned candidates.

8. If I have graduated, when can I receive my graduation documents?

If candidates have been successful at the final examination, the graduation documents under the seal of the University will be delivered to them from the University within three months after receipt of the examination results in general.
